Attorney Richard Kreisler addressed Council as attorney for the Redlands Police Officers' Association in regards to the impasse in this year's salary negotiations. He expressed concern at the Mayor's statement that the Association would be limited to one presentation before Council, remarking that a Council eager to resolve the impasse would be willing to meet as necessary.

Police Association Presentation

Mr. Kreisler reviewed past stalemates between Council and the Police Association over the years, and stated that last year's controversy served neither the police, the Council, nor the public well. Mr. Kreisler strongly recommended the calling in of an impartial third party, acceptable to both the Association and the Council, to serve as non-binding arbitrator and to hopefully be a catalyst in this disagreement. He pointed out that Council frequently relies on consultants in City matters, uses their attorneys and City Manager as consultants, and an arbitrator would act as a consultant to both parties in this dispute.
